Saratoga Lake – Early History

- 4,339 acres 2 by 6 miles
- Kaydeross Creek into Saratoga Lake to Fish Creek over 2 dams into Hudson River

Saratoga Lake – Early History

- Hunting Territory for Mohawk Indians in 17 & 18th centuries
- 1684: Mohawks transferred land to speculators
- 1764: Initial European settlement with 3-4 families
- 1770's Highlands east of Snake Hill and south side settled
- 1780s: North shore settled
- 1790's: Fish Creek and Stafford Bridge area settled and first school established
- Grist and saw mills near feeder streams
- Farming and lumbering were important
- Grain, Hay, potatoes, apples, butter and cheese produced
- Shad, herring, trout, eel, pike, pickering, perch, black bass plentiful in 1800s

Indian Superstition

- Mohawk Indians believed that the Lake's stillness was sacred to the Great Spirit and that, if a human voice uttered a sound upon its waters, the canoe of the offender would instantly sink.

Indian Encampment

- Iroquois Indians called Saratoga Lake “Caniaderiossers” – the lake of the crooked stream
- The Mohawks encamped there from the earliest days of the Kayderosseras Flats
 - Was a great hunting and fishing ground
 - Many Indian artifacts were discovered including fish spears and stone hatchets
- In the address by Mohawk Chieftain to William Penn in 1863, it was mentioned as “the place where the game abounds.”

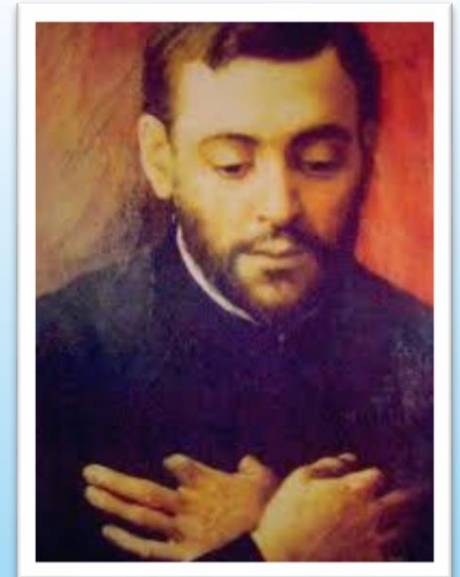

Transitional Phase

- Per a May 1768 settlement, the Mohawks gave up their claim to the land around the lake to Rip Van Dam
- Glanmore – 1852 Romance of the Revolution, a novel by Park Clinton referred to it as a crystal lake .
- Jim Riley, a famous oarsman opened up the first resort in the early 1800s
- Next came Loomis and Simon's Lakehouse which in 1844 was a 20 minute ride from downtown

Transitional Phase

- The first white man to view Saratoga Lake was the Jesuit, Isaac Jogues, who also discovered Lake George. The Church is named after him.
- Saratoga Lake supplied both the British and Colonials with their fish and game shortly before the Battle of Saratoga.

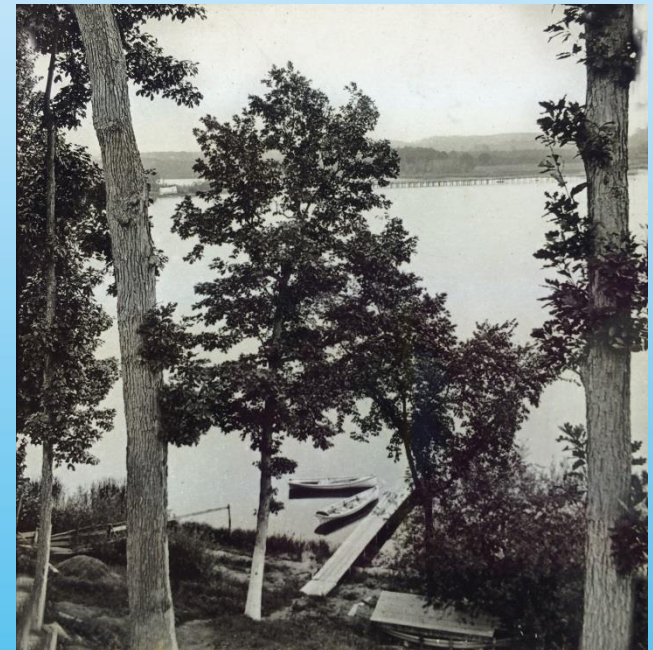

Transformed to Tourist Destination

- As Saratoga grew as a tourist destination because of its mineral springs, many visitors also visited the lake
- Row boating, sail boating, steam boating, fishing, hunting, swimming and picnicking
- College regattas
- Farmers provided lodging to tourists

Transformed to Tourist Destination

- Introduction of the lake houses in 1830s
- Lake houses flourished in 1850's
- 1870's the lake houses became more elaborate
- Moon's served dinner to 200-300 people per night
- Docks and Boats

Recreational Landmark

- Oldest historical recreation lake in NYS
- As in early days when Mohawks fished it, remains one of the State's best fishing lakes.
- Site of first international regatta in the US sponsored by John Morrisey
- First college regatta took place in 1874
- Since the turn of 1900, a number of regattas for inboard motors have been held on the lake

- Site of first international regatta in the U.S. sponsored by John Morrisey
- First college regatta took place in 1874
- Since the turn of 1900, a number of regattas for inboard motors have been held on the lake

Early Settlers

- Myers Lakehouse was on Cedar Bluff, Pete Francis lived in the south end
- Jim Riley and Nelson Ramsdill had early farms
- Other early settlers were the Abels, Oscar Avery, Steven Thorns, Pecks, Caldwells, Conklings, Arnolds, Rogers, and Ingraham
- In 1870's wealthy NYC publisher Frank Leslie built a home on 92 acres-Interlaken

HOTEL AND ITS NAMESAKE — The White Sulphur Spring Hotel, as seen above in this 1903 photo, no longer stands at the south end of Saratoga Lake. The hotel was razed in 1958 when the state straightened a dangerous curve on Route 9P. A Schenectady developer is awaiting approval to develop a 37-acre resort on the hotel site that will include town houses and a replica of the White Sulphur Hotel. The White Sulphur Spring, seen at left in its current state, is at Luther Road and Route 9P. It has been visited by boxer Jack Dempsey and other famous past lakeside residents.

White Sulphur Spring Park & Hotel.

Mrs. ANNA C. MYERS, Manager. T. C. LUTHER, Proprietor.

This celebrated Summer Resort will again be thrown open to guests and patrons with added attractions. It is delightfully situated on the east shore of Saratoga Lake, and is a commodious establishment with large, well ventilated rooms, and all the modern improvements. It is surrounded by an open piazza, affording a grand view of Saratoga Lake Scenery, and it is located in a park of one hundred and thirty acres with miles of shady walks, and numerous arbors and rustic cottages.

Mrs. ANNA C. MYERS, so long and favorably known to the public as the proprietor of the famous Cedar Bluff Hotel, will have the management of the White Sulphur Spring Hotel, during the season of '84. Among the many attractions of this hotel may be mentioned the White Sulphur Baths, which are so well known and so highly recommended.

Invention of the Potato Chip

"If a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mousetrap than his neighbor, though he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."

attributed to Ralph Waldo Emerson 1803–1882

The Invention: The Potato Chip

The Inventors: "Aunt Katie" Weeks and George "Crum" Speck
(Saratoga Springs, New York)

The Year: 1853

"The more you have of them, the more you will want them," pronounced the renowned Scottish professor and writer, Nathan Sheppard, in a book he titled, Saratoga Chips. Sheppard's humorous homage to the potato chip came 30 years after its invention at Moon's Lake House, one of the most prestigious dining spots at the Saratoga Springs spa, a mecca for the socially elite.

Legend has it that the Lake House's famous cook George Speck—"Crum"—was needed by a customer who returned French fries because they were too thick. Sarcasically, Crum shaved the potatoes paper thin, fried them, and sent them back out.

Another, more popular, version of the story is that Crum's sister, "Aunt Katie" Weeks, accidentally produced the chip while she was peeling potatoes. A slice flew into a nearby vat of hot fat ready for frying cutlery. After retrieving the potato slice, Katie placed it on a plate to dry. Soon Crum entered, tasted the chip, and fell in love with its unique flavor. Hearing her explanation, he remarked, "It's a good accident. We'll have plenty of these."

Whichever story is true, it was certainly Crum's insight and ingenuity that brought the "Saratoga Chip" to overnight success. It fast became as famous as the celebrities who clamored to crunch on them—from governors to Presidents Arthur and Cleveland and financiers such as Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jay Gould, and Pierre Lorillard. In fact, it took the combined efforts of Katie and Crum to fill the orders. Since the paper bag had not yet been invented, the chips were offered in a cornucopia for 15¢.

Aunt Katie and Crum continued to experiment, perfecting the shape, thickness, and seasoning of the Saratoga Chip, which remained a delicacy of the wealthy until 1925. At that time, A.A. Walter & Company in Albany, New York, began to mass-produce the chip, which was soon to become America's favorite snack.

Taking a good idea and making it work in a big way is typical of ARCO Chemical Company. We did not invent the production technology behind propylene oxide, dipropylene glycol, propylene glycol, or glycerine—we just made it work in a big way. With the foresight and innovation typical of pioneers, we fast became an industry forerunner. And, as one good idea does lead to another, we're the company to watch for major breakthroughs in oxygenated products.

This can of potato chips is from those at ARCO Chemical Company, who, like George "Crum" Speck, act on the need for insight, inventiveness, and service. In the future, as in the past, we'll be working to make the chemical industry's story one of continued, mutual success.
